

AGUINALDO IN JAIL
CALLING FOR PEACE.

Graphic Details of His Capture by Funston—Bagged in Midst of His Picked Bodyguard.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A cablegram received at the War Department late this afternoon from Gen. MacArthur tells in a succinct way the history of Aguinaldo's capture; gives all credit for the brilliant exploit to Gen. Funston, whose reward it suggests should be that of a brigadier-general in the regular army, and finally closes with an expression of confidence in the speedy cessation of hostilities throughout the Philippine archipelago as a result of the capture. Except that it makes no reference to the disposition to be made of Aguinaldo, the dispatch covers the whole field of gossip and speculation excited in Washington by the news that Funston's adventurous expedition had been crowned with complete success. The cablegram follows:

"Adjutant General, Washington: Important messages fell into the hands of Gen. Funston, February 28, from which Aguinaldo was located at Palanan, Isabela province. Expedition was organized, consisting of Aguinaldo's captured messenger, 4 ex-insurgent officers, and 78 Macabebes who spoke Tagalog; armed with Mausers and Remingtons; dressed to represent insurgents. Funston commanded, accompanied by Capt. Russell T. Hazard, Eleventh Cavalry; Capt. Harry W. Newton, Thirty-fourth Infantry; Lieut. Oliver P. M. Hazard, Eleventh U. S. V. Cavalry; Lieut. Barton J. Mitchell, Fortieth U. S. V. Infantry. Officers dressed as American privates and represented prisoners.

"AG. DOES HONORS. "Expedition sailed Manila fifth, Vicksburg, landed March 14, east coast Luzon, 27 miles south Casiguran. Reached Palanan, marching 3 afternoon March 23. Natives completely misled. Supposed detachment insurgent reinforcements for which supplies furnished. Aguinaldo also sent supplies, and partly escort forty men, intended to extend proper honor. Short distance Aguinaldo's quarters disguise discarded. Combat followed, resulting two insurgents killed; 18 rifles, 100 rounds ammunition captured, together with Aguinaldo and two principal staff officers. No casualties our side. ceived from Balidomero, Lacuna was sending his best company to President Emilio Aguinaldo. His plans completed and approved, Gen. Funston went to Manila and organized his expedition, selecting seventy-eight Macabebes, all of whom spoke Tagalog fluently. Twenty were insurgent uniforms and the others the dress of Filipino laborers. This Macabebe company, armed with fifty Mausers, eight Remingtons and ten Krag-Jorgensen, was commanded by Capt. Russell T. Hazard of the Eleventh U. S. Cavalry. With him was his brother, Lieut. Oliver P. M. Hazard of the same regiment. Capt. Harry W. Newton, Thirty-fourth Infantry, was taken because of his familiarity with Casiguran Bay, and Lieut. Barton J. Mitchell, Fortieth Infantry, went as Gen. Funston's aide. These were the only Americans accompanying the leader of the expedition. With the Macabebes were four ex-insurgent officers, one being a Spaniard and the other three Tagalogs, whom Gen. Funston trusted implicitly. Gen. Funston and the officers wore plain blue shirts and khaki trousers. Each carried a half blanket, but wore no insignia of rank. The Macabebes were carefully instructed to obey the orders of the insurgent officers. On the night of March 8 the party embarked on the United States gunboat Vicksburg. It was originally intended to take Casco from the island of Polillo and drift to the mainland, but a storm arose and three of the cascos were lost. This plan was abandoned. At 2 o'clock a.m. March 14, the Vicksburg put her lights out and ran in shore, twenty-five miles south of Casiguran, province of Principe. The party landed and marched to Casiguran.

"FOOLING THE NATIVES. The Americans had never garbioned this place, and the inhabitants are strong insurgent sympathizers. Having arrived there, the ex-insurgent officers, ostensibly commanding the party, announced that they were on their way to join Aguinaldo between Pantabangan and Belor; that they had surprised an American surveying party and that they had killed a number, capturing five. They exhibited Gen. Funston and the other Americans as their prisoners. The insurgent President of Casiguran believed the story. Two of the Lacuna letters previously constructed were forwarded to Aguinaldo at Palanan, Province of Isabela. Gen. Funston and the others were kept imprisoned for three days, surreptitiously giving orders at night. On the morning of March 17, taking a small quantity of cracked corn, the party started on a ninety-mile march to Palanan. The country is rough and uninhabited, and provisions could not be secured. The party ate small shell fish, but were almost starved. Wading swift rivers, climbing precipitous mountains and penetrating dense jungles, they marched six days and nights, and on March 23 had reached a point eight miles from Palanan.

"On the morning of March 23 the advance was resumed. The column was met by the staff of officers of Aguinaldo's bodyguard, which was ordered to take charge of the Americans. While one of the ex-insurgent officers conversed with Aguinaldo's aide, another, a Spaniard, sent a courier to warn Gen. Funston, and the rest, who, with eleven Macabebes, were about an hour behind. Having received this warning, Gen. Funston avoided Aguinaldo's detachment and joined the column, avoiding observation. The Tagalogs went ahead to greet Aguinaldo, and the column slowly followed, arriving finally at Palanan.

"Aguinaldo's household troops, fifty men, in neat uniforms of blue and white, and wearing straw hats, lined up to receive the newcomers. Gen. Funston's men crossed the river in small boats, formed on the bank and marched to the right, and then in front of the insurgent grenadiers. The Tagalogs entered the house where Aguinaldo was.

"CAPTURE OF AGUINALDO. Suddenly the Spanish officer, noticing that Aguinaldo's aide was watching the Americans suspiciously, exclaimed: 'Now, Macabebes, go for them.' The Macabebes opened fire, but their aim was rather ineffective, and only three insurgents were killed. The rebels returned the fire. On hearing the firing, Aguinaldo, who evidently thought his men were merely celebrating the arrival of reinforcements, ran to the window and shouted: 'Stop that foolishness! Quit wasting ammunition!'

"Hilario Placido, one of the Tagalog officers, and a former insurgent major, who was wounded in the lung by the fire of the Kansas regiment at the battle of Calocan, threw his arms around Aguinaldo, exclaiming: 'You are a prisoner of the Americans!'

"Col. Simon Villa, Aguinaldo's chief of staff, Alambra and the others attacked the men who were holding Aguinaldo. Placido shot Villa in the shoulder. Alambra jumped out of the window and attempted to cross the river. It was supposed that he was drowned. Five other insurgent officers fought for a few minutes and then fled, making their escape. When the firing began, Gen. Funston assumed command and directed the attack on the house, personally assisting in the capture of Aguinaldo. The insurgent bodyguard fled, leaving twenty rifles. Santiago Barcelona, the insurgent treasurer, surrendered without resistance.

"When captured, Aguinaldo was tremendously excited, but he calmed down under Gen. Funston's assurance that he would be well treated. Gen. Funston secured all of Aguinaldo's correspondence, showing that he had kept in close touch with the sub-chiefs of the insurrection in all parts of the archipelago. It was discovered that Aguinaldo, on January 28, had proclaimed himself dictator. He had been living at Palanan for seven months, undisturbed except when a detachment of the Sixteenth Infantry visited the town. On that occasion the entire population took to the mountains and remained there until the troops retired.

"Aguinaldo admitted that he had come near to being captured before, but he asserted that he had never been wounded, adding: 'I should never have been taken, if I had been taken except by strategy. I was completely deceived by Lacuna's forged signature.'

"He feared he might be sent to Guam, and he was quite glad to come to Manila. Palanan was guarded by numerous outposts and signal stations. During the fight none of the Macabebes were wounded.

"The expedition reached March 24, and then marched sixteen miles the following day to Palanan Bay, where Gen. Funston found the Vicksburg, which brought him to Manila. Commander Harry A. Vicksburg rendered Gen. Funston splendid assistance. Aguinaldo, who talked freely of past events, said he supposed Gen. Trias would proclaim himself dictator, even not knowing that Trias had surrendered. He behaved courteously, and Gen. Funston says Aguinaldo is above the average in intelligence and prepossessing manners.

"CABINET PLEADS WITH HIM. CONFERENCE OF LEADERS. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.) MANILA, March 28.—(By Manila Cable.) Aguinaldo today conferred, in the Tagalog language, at the Malacan Palace with several former members of his Cabinet, and other prominent Filipinos.

"The hopefulness of the insurgent cause and advised him to use his influence to establish peace and for the recognition of American sovereignty. The result of the conference is as yet unknown.

"HE'S IN GOOD HEALTH AND SEEMS CHEERFUL. EX-DICTATOR LUNCHEONS WITH GEN. MACARTHUR'S STAFF. Is Reported to Have Talked Freely, but to Have Displayed Ignorance of Recent Events—Secretary Long Would Have Him Spangled.

"(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.) MANILA, March 28.—(By Manila Cable.) Aguinaldo, who was captured by Gen. Funston and brought to Manila on the United States gunboat Vicksburg, was brought ashore at 3:10 o'clock p.m. today, and taken before Gen. MacArthur at the Malacan Palace. He talked freely, but seemed ignorant concerning recent events. He appeared to be in good health, and was even cheerful. He lunched with the officers of Gen. MacArthur's staff and was then escorted to the Andra-street jail.

"Aguinaldo's capture was attended with considerable difficulty, an insurgent major being killed at the time of the event. Twenty rifles and a number of important papers were captured.

"OFFICIAL CABLEGRAMS. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.) WASHINGTON, March 28.—The press reports of the capture of Aguinaldo by Gen. MacArthur at Manila, in the following cablegram to Adj.-Gen. Corbin:

"Gen. Funston has just returned from expedition to Palanan, province of Isabela, where he captured Aguinaldo, who is now in our possession at Malacan. Particulars later." Malacan is Gen. MacArthur's headquarters and residence in Manila. Admiral Remy at Manila has cabled the Navy Department as follows: "CAVITE, March 28.—Bureau of Navigation, Washington: Vicksburg sailed 8th, with Gen. Funston and eighty-three Macabebes aboard on expedition to capture Aguinaldo. Returned today. Aguinaldo and three staff officers captured and delivered to custody of Gen. MacArthur. [Signed] "REMY."

"WASHINGTON GRATIFIED. LONG WOULD SPANK AGGIE. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.) WASHINGTON, March 28.—The news of Gen. Aguinaldo's capture was received everywhere in official circles with intense gratification, but perhaps nowhere did it create more satisfaction than at the White House. The first official news to reach the Executive Mansion was Gen. MacArthur's dispatch announcing the capture, which came about midnight last night. This morning the President also saw Admiral Remy's cablegram and the press dispatches.

"The President naturally is very much gratified that the chief mover in toward Kalghu avenue. With her feet bare, and her little body covered only by her "nightie," she had run from her home, four blocks away, to give the alarm. The race to Kalghu-avenue station had left her chilled and out of breath, and the whispered alarm was her supreme effort. One of the firemen seized Mamie in his arms and sprang to his place on the truck. The frightened eyes of the child peered from beneath the folds of her great coat. She told the firemen where to go, and they found the flames in one of the rear rooms of Mamie's home. The fire had been started by children playing with matches. It was extinguished in a few minutes.

Congressman Will Go Up

Rivers by Boat and

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

PITTSBURGH (Pa.), March 26.—

[Exclusive Dispatch.] Congress-

man Burton of Cleveland, O.,

chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House,

passed through Pittsburgh tonight

on his way home from the national capital to attend the State election next Monday. The Buckeye man made the interesting announcement here that he will devote three months of his time this summer to a study of the rivers

and harbors along the Pacific

Coast and in the State of Texas.

The Congressman will spend two months of this time looking over the rivers and harbors along the Pacific Coast, and one month in Texas, and he will go prepared to

"rough it."

In some instances he proposes to follow the courses of rivers, and on these trips he will go in small boats and launches, and part of the trip he may go on horseback.

He expects that when he returns

he will thoroughly understand the rivers and harbors of the sections of the country he has visited, and

this knowledge will be a valuable

aid to him in his work as chairman of the Congressional Rivers

and Harbors Committee.

Mr. Burton said: "I will leave

for Southern California about June

Los Angeles during my investigation of Southern California waterways."

Forest That Grows Among Glaciers
and Ice Peaks of Alaska Upon

Field of Ice. [Philadelphia Record:] In the long-known fastnesses of Alaska, visited
only by the hardiest explorers, exists
one of the most curious phenomena which a freakish mood of nature has ever conceived. It is a well-known fact that many forms of vegetation, particularly several members of the tree family, will exist and even thrive in spots apparently incapable of supporting plant life. Some of the curiosities time to time are in themselves remarkable, yet when compared with what Alaska has to show they seem commonplace. For Alaska lays claim to nothing less than a vast forest growth in a foundation of ice.

During recent years many explorers who have penetrated to the most inaccessible parts of Alaska have brought back with them accounts of a forest found growing at an altitude of several thousand meters, surrounded by glaciers and ice peaks whose frost-

The ice forest of Alaska is located on the Malaspina glacier, skirting the southern coast of Alaska, and extending for about sixty miles back from the bay of Yukatat, covering in width more than twenty-five miles. The exact size of the glacier is about 22 square miles. It forms an immense plain of ice, almost as level as a sheet of water, and resembling more than anything else the prairies of the Western States. Viewed from a neighboring peak, the eye discerns nothing but blank sheet of crystal, whose monotonous expanse bears not a speck color. In the eastern portion of the Malaspina glacier is the ice forest—long belt of tall trees and gnarled trunks, facing the sea in a huge semicircle and forming a vivid contrast

The frosted peaks and glittering fields that cover the sea as far as the eye can reach. The contrast is heightened by the fact that there is no other vegetation for a distance of several hundred miles around.

In explanation of the origin of this phenomenon it is explained that the sun shining during a short day upon the ice-clad peaks and surface of the glacier causes the ice to melt rapidly and vanish in countless small rivulets leaving the rocky summits bare and flowing water gradually ate away the rocks and deposited them in layers upon the flat surface of the glacier below, until in course of time a surface of earth several feet in thickness was formed on the ice. While the ice was rounding the deposits of rock melted, and in turn was carried away, the covering of earth protected a part of the ice, until finally a patch of earth many miles square was left high and dry on the bosom of the glacier.

very loose—in fact, so loose that it is impossible to climb a steep ascent. The appearance of the soil is perfectly natural, and, were it not for the fact that in many spots holes several feet in depth disclose the layer of ice beneath, it would be almost impossible to realize that this great forest was really growing on the glacier. It is possible often to walk for miles and miles without stumbling upon visible evidences of the ice underneath.

nected with the ice forest is an ice lake situated at the source of the Malaspina glacier. At first sight this lake resembles an ordinary sheet of water in winter. Upon closer inspection, however, it is seen that the banks and surrounding cliffs are fashioned entirely out of ice. In formation they resemble rocks covered with a coating of ice.

made a statement in the Reichstag the other day, in which he interpreted the Kaiser's recent decree on dueling as a measure not intended to prohibit the custom, but merely to restrict it. His remarks have been received with enthusiasm by the army press, while the Social-Democratic organs regard them as showing that morality in the army is about to take a deplorable step backward.

brought out by some sharp criticism by Herr Groeber of the Center party on the recent dueling scandals, and the crimes which had been inspired by some of them. The Minister said, referring to the Kaiser's decree, that His Majesty understood, as well as every other army officer, that complete prevention of dueling in the army was not to be thought of. He boldly declared that there were certain cases in which dueling must be admitted, for instance, if an officer was struck or charged with cowardice. The Min-ter also touched upon the Morchinger affair. There was scarcely a grave insult to an officer, he declared, than that which the staff surgeon Rudinger had suffered by being struck in the face. His words imply that he would have regarded the duel as unavoidable. This was exactly the opinion of Rudinger's brother, who has since been sentenced for shooting Capt. Adams in order to prevent the meeting. Concluding a brief review of the history of dueling in the German army, the effect of which was to show that had been impossible to do away with the practice, Gen. Von Gossler endorsed the Emperor for having the honor of individual officers, as well as the general esprit militaire, so much at heart.

Milk Food Forbidden in China.
[New York Medical Journal:] The Indian Lancet for January 21, gives the following condensation of a proclamation in the Loo Chow Herald:

"Man should not rob animals of their milk," said the cow. "The milk of the cow is the most valuable to man, and the seller of milk blackens their souls for gain, but those who drink milk do so in the foolish belief that it is good for them. Before taking any medicine, we should carefully investigate its properties, and who does so in the case of milk? Milk is the natural food of babes and of young animals, but when adults drink it, do they not thereby endanger the life of the suckling calf, and arouse the bitter resentment of the mother?"

ment in the souls of the calf and its mother? Beasts have not the power of speech, and so cannot tell men that a drinking cow's milk they will become like quadrupeds. If men must have a strengthening draught, there are thousand better things than milk, why select that? Besides, the term of life is foreordained, and it cannot be prolonged by drinking milk.

"Every one who reads this warning is especially enjoined to abstain from milk in the future. Children, who parents will not allow them to drink milk will not be stunted in growth, but will have their lives prolonged, and be immune in epidemics. So it is proclaimed in the Hall of Good Counsel, [Philadelphia Press:] "What would you say," began the vobule prophet of woe, "if I were to tell you that in every short space of time all the rivers in this country would dry up?" "I would say," replied the patierman, "Go thou and do likewise."

(Philadelphia Press:) (Ascum:) You butler has left you, eh?
(Nooritch:) I had to fire him.
(Ascum:) Why, he seemed to me to be an ideal man for the place.
(Nooritch:) That's right, but he couldn't break pop of the habit of taking off his hat and saying "sir" to him.

TRANSPORTATION AND TRAVEL.

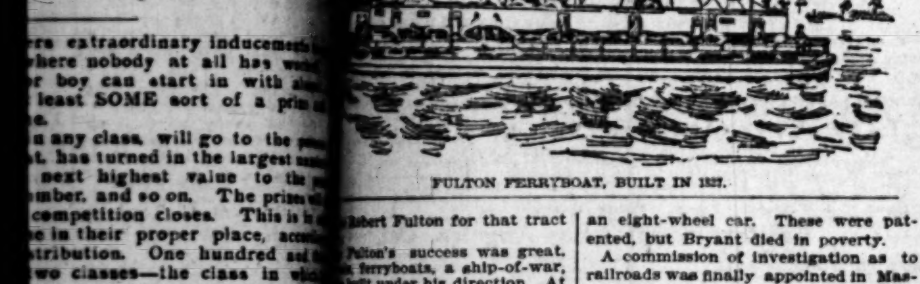

THE quarter of the nineteenth century brought forth information in regard to steam navigation upon water. In 1807 James Fulton and Robert Livingston secured the first patent for a steamboat. The first steamboat was built in 1807 and was named the Clermont. It was built by Fulton and Livingston and was the first of a long line of steamboats. The Clermont was built in New York and was the first of a long line of steamboats. The Clermont was built in New York and was the first of a long line of steamboats.

FULTON FERRYBOAT, BUILT IN 1807.

Robert Fulton for that tract of land on the Hudson river, which he had purchased from the Dutch East India Company. The success was great. The ferryboat, a ship-of-war, built under his direction. At the time of the first voyage, the ferryboat was known as "the horse boat." It was the first of a long line of horse boats. The horse boat was built in New York and was the first of a long line of horse boats.

By Far the Most Frequent Cause of Nervous Disorders of the Male is a Damaged Prostate Gland.

THE PROSTATE GLAND (so-called neck of bladder) is a structure very rich in nerves. When the termination of these nerves are kept in a constant state of excitement, by chronic inflammatory processes, it appears very clear that by transmission of the irritation to other nerves, the patient may be subject to various phenomena of the most varied character. Prematurities, Loss of Vitality, etc., are not uncommon, but symptoms of this inflammation. We have prepared a colored chart, which we will send free on application, by which any one interested can readily understand why he has been treated for a weakness, he has not been cured. We particularly solicit this class of cases, and can promise a speedy cure.
